CANA – Getting Ready

Shihab M. Helmy SMohammed@egy.primegroup.org

Suez Canal Bank [CANA] is one of Egypt's small-cap banks with EGP49.5bn in total assets and an 0.8% market share. It is currently traded at a P/B of 0.52x. We valued the bank based on a sum-of-the-part (SOTP) methodology, breaking it down into two segments:

- (1) The bank's operations, where we valued based on a justified P/B of 0.64x (excluding all of its equity investments). This concluded a value of EGP6.76/share.
- (2) The bank's equity investments based on two sub-sections, listed investments (valued at market) and unlisted investments (valued at book value). This concluded a value of EGP3.85/share.

Summing up the two values (EGP6.76 + EGP3.85) we reach a fair value for CANA of EGP10.62/share, suggesting an upside potential of 24%. We note that we are conservative here as we replaced all the bank's equity investments with only what the bank has disclosed in its financial statements (i.e. our valuation excludes other investments that we do not know of). Hence, we made a sensitivity analysis based on two variables, ROE and COE.

Please check out the below tables for the detailed valuation and analysis.

We note that CANA will eventually have to comply with the Central Bank of Egypt's (CBE) minimum paid-in capital of EGP5bn, which is c.EGP1.7bn short if we were to compare it versus the bank's book value of equity. This justifies the recent sale of some of its investments, such as MIDOR, to potentially raise enough funds to increase its capital. Furthermore, this may open the door for a potential merger or acquisition by a bigger bank or another bank in the same predicament. Please check out Today's Trading Playbook below for more details on this.

1. TODAY'S TRADING PLAYBOOK

POSITIVE

CANA, EXPA: We continue to prefer these two small-cap banks, and we might throw in SAIB (traded in USD) as well, noting that both CANA and SAIB have the same major shareholder, namely Arab International Bank, with stakes of 41.5% and 46.1%, respectively. CANA's paid-in capital is currently at EGP2bn, while SAIB's stands at USD150mn (equivalent to EGP2.2bn). Combined, the two bank's paid-in capital would be EGP4.4bn, just a bit shy off the CBE's minimum EGP5bn threshold. Thus, we think it might make sense to combine both banks at some point. Just an idea!

Now, on to the top news and analysis for the day.

MACRO NEWS

Egypt's annual urban inflation rose to 5.6% in June 2020, up from 4.7% in May 2020. Meanwhile, monthly urban inflation for June came in at 0.1%. (CAPMAS)

Egypt's fuel automatic pricing committee decided to keep the current fuel prices fixed until the end of September 2020. The need to shield the economy against unfavorable fluctuations of oil prices predicted in Q3 2020 was cited by the committee as a reason for its decision. We believe the oil price outlook should remain well below the government's estimate of USD61/bbl in the FY21 budget. This should release some savings from the projected EGP28bn fuel subsidy bill. (Al-Mal)

Prime Research 2/7

Egypt is currently disbursing EGP331.65mn to workers hit by the coronavirus pandemic, including those working in tourism and spinning and weaving sectors. We see that the incomesupport measures should be an essential element of fiscal stimuli, given the substantial demand shock created by the pandemic turmoil. (Mubasher)

CAPMAS's index of manufacturing and extractive industries, excluding crude oil and petroleum products, dropped by 11.4% m/m to an initial 98.5 in April from 111.2 in March. The official statistics agency's rubber and plastic manufacturing index increased by 12.6% m/m to 49.9 from 44.3 in March, due to the growth in sales of rubber-made medical supplies. The mining and quarrying manufacturing index also rose 15.9%, but the machinery and equipment index fell 29.0% m/m. (Mubasher)

Vehicle importers will benefit from customs exemptions on European and Turkish cars originating from GCC countries by providing the Euro 1 certificate in addition to a documented report from Gulf ports proving the vehicles are directly exported from their free zones. (Al-Mal)

CORPORATE NEWS

Telecom Egypt [ETEL] signed a cooperation protocol with the Ministry of Education to launch the first school of applied technology in Egypt, which will be named WE Joint School of Applied Technology for Communication & Information Technology. (Al-Mal)

CI Capital Holding [CICH] raised its stake in Palm Hills Developments [PHDC] from 2.86% to 3.00% after buying 4.14mn shares worth EGP5.18mn. (Mubasher)

Misr Insurance Co. and Misr Life Insurance Co., through six investment portfolios, sold stakes in Egyptian Resorts Co. (ERC) [EGTS] for EGP20.2mn and EGP20.9mn, respectively, cutting the former's stake from 3.7% to 2.34% and the latter's from 3.29% to 1.88%. (Company disclosure)

Misr Insurance Co. sold stakes in El-Nasr Clothing & Textiles [KABO] for a total value of EGP6.2mn, through two investment portfolios, reducing its stake in KABO from 4.96% to 1.21%. Meanwhile, Misr Life Insurance Co. sold its entire stake in KABO for a total of EGP1.5mn. (EGX)

Americana Group raised the purchase price for the minority shares in subsidiary Egyptian Co. for International Touristic Projects (Americana Egypt) [EITP] to EGP6.32/share. (FRA)

Samsung Mobile Phones, for whom MM Group for Industry & International Trade [MTIE] is a key distributor, raised its prices by a range of EGP51-700, led by a 5% fee imposed by the National Telecom Regulatory Authority (NTRA) on mobile phone imports a week ago. (Al-Mal)

Technip has signed a contract with Assiut Oil Refining Co. to build a USD2.8bn hydrocracking complex which will produce c.2.8mn tons of diesel, 0.4mn of naphtha, and 0.1mn of butane using mazut as feedstock. (Enterprise, Official statement)

GLOBAL NEWS

Emerging countries, including Egypt are expected to be favorable destinations for tourists,

Oxford Business Group said. The group expects global business travel to take longer to rebound, and may struggle to return to pre-pandemic levels, noting that businesses will look to formalize operational shifts prompted by the pandemic and turn temporary measures into permanent strategies. (Oxford Business Group)

Argentina's USD65bn debt restructuring talks teetered on the edge on Wednesday after two key creditor groups knocked back the country's latest "final" offer, while the government signaled that there was no room left to improve the terms. (Reuters)

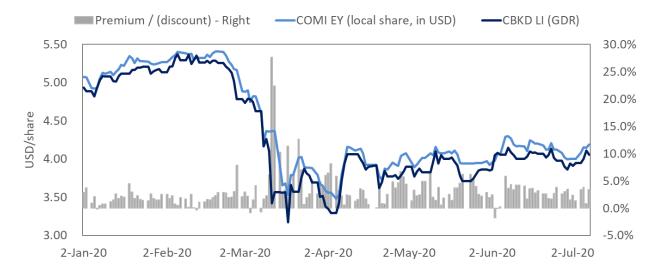

British finance minister warned of hardship ahead as he set out plans to protect jobs and limit the economic impact of the coronavirus. (Reuters)

China's passenger car sales in June fell 6.5% y/y to 1.68mn units, the China Passenger Car Association (CPCA) said on Wednesday. Retail sales were in line with expectations and signaled a continuing recovery in the passenger car market, CPCA said. (Reuters)

Orders for infrastructure materials and equipment have helped industrial output recover faster in China than most places emerging from COVID-19 lockdowns, but further expansion will be hard to attain without stronger broad-based demand and exports. (Reuters)

Turkey's lira this week slipped to its weakest level since hitting a record low in early May after inflation for the month of June was reported at 12.6%, a figure that topped economists' expectations. With rapidly shrinking foreign reserves to prop up the currency, inflation and currency devaluation are showing no signs of a turnaround. (CNBC)
