KEY THEMES

The world still has to deal with a more hawkish U.S. Fed, further pushing the U.S. dollar and yields higher. Now, we learn that the Fed plans to curtail its balance sheet by some USD95bn a month to combat inflation. Also, it has not been going well for the BRIC group lately. First, Brazil has been suffering from drought then frost and now floods, which impacts its crops. Second, Russia has induced its own wounds after invading Ukraine. Third, India just had last week a 2-day nationwide strike protesting the Indian government's recent economic measures. Also, China is fighting the spread of new COVID-19 cases, further rattling already shaky global economic expectations.

Here at home, we continue to see M&A playing out as the main outstanding theme of the five themes we had mentioned in our STANDPoint strategy note published on 30 January 2022. Trading in the market has become transaction based. For instance, a potential bid for EFG-Hermes Holding [HRHO] drove the stock price higher. Another example is Domty [DOMT] which saw its price rise as a result of another bid. A third example is B Investments' [BINV] exit from Giza Systems, cashing out on one of its private equity investments. Thus, we think Egypt stocks' performance will continue to be event-driven for the rest of H1 2022, be it M&A or share buybacks.

Now, on to the top news and analysis for the day.
